BRAIN TESTERS

At a dinner party the hostess provided for a great number of people and found she had much left over. She blamed it on her husband. He had told her that "his father-in-law, my mother's father-in-law, my brother-in-law's father, my brother-in-law's father," would be there.

For how many should she have provided?

Satterfield and the hunting season is just beginning according to information secured at that office this morning. New Chemistry Building of West Virginia University at Morgantown Will Accommodate 2,000 Students

MORGANTOWN, W. Va., Sept. 2.—The proposed new chemistry building for West Virginia University, for which an appropriation of $400,000 has already been made, will be one of the most modern in arrangement and equipment in the country. It will accommodate more than 2,000 students, thus providing for the future growth and development of the department of chemistry, on the basis of its rapid growth in the past year.

The building has been developed by the architect, Davis and Dunlap, of Philadelphia, in cooperation with Professor Clark, head of the department of chemistry, and other members of the chemistry staff. The chemistry work in the University has become of great importance. There are now fourteen chemists of professional rank employed in the various departments. Of this number, seven are associated with Professor Clark in chemistry work of the College of Arts and Sciences, the pre-medical work, the first courses for agriculture and engineering students.

The building has the Georgian style of architecture conforming to the plan of the old chemistry building, the most recent additions to the group of campus buildings. The building is 78 by 304 feet over all, the main portion being 73 feet by 254. There are four floors above ground, also a full basement under the entire main part of the building and in addition, a serviceable attic lighted by skylights and dormer windows.

A lecture hall with a capacity of 300 or more will be attached to the west end of the building the lecture desk being on the basement level. The seating is amphitheater style. All light comes from the ceiling, shades for the skylights being adjusted by compressed air from the lecture desk.

NOTICE SERVED OF INJUNCTION ON UNION HEADS

tion of ignoring the order so far as it might be conceived as interfering with what they conceived to be legitimate efforts of the striking organizations and their friends to win the strike.

W. H. Johnston, representing as president of the International Association of Machinists, one of the largest groups of the strikers, declared the injunction would not cause the slightest abatement of efforts to win the strike, while Samuel Gompers, president of the American Federation of Labor, asserted it was the federation's view that injunctions which invaded industrial rights should be treated as scraps of paper.

Gompers declared that the federation would continue to raise funds for the strikers. He assailed the injunction as a most outrageous thing—a process of the manufacture of radicalism and bolshevism in this country. The injunction, he added, "might stir up a hornet's nest." Instead of putting a check to existing unrest.

The government's injunction suit was still the dominant subject of informal discussion among officials and members of the Senate and House today, to a great majority of whom the action came as a complete surprise.

COBURN'S MINSTREL SHOW PLAYING HERE

Coburn's minstrels are in town today, and will give performances this afternoon and evening at the Blue Ridge theater. The arrival of the show in town today was made known to all by a street parade and band concert, the latter in front of the courthouse. There are some clever performers on the bill and feel they can tickle the Fairmont public.

Dan Holt is scheduled as the real funny man. He is said to have irresistible humor and an endless stream of jokes that flow like bullets from a machine gun. Hank White and Nate Milroy are able assistants, the latter singing his famous song, "I Ain't Putting Nothing Out but My Breath and I am Taking That In."

Ernie Clifford is an exceptional soloist and will render a number of good songs.

All in all, it is said to be a well balanced troupe and capable of offering clean and wholesome amusement.

PLANS TO IMPROVE TRAFFIC PROPOSED

Plans for improving the coal car supply in Northern West Virginia by the B. & O. railroad will be asked as a result of a meeting of representatives of the Fairmont and Clarksburg chambers of commerce and the transportation committee of the Northern West Virginia Coal Operators' Association at the rooms of the Chamber of Commerce in Clarksburg yesterday.

A telegram has been sent to C. W. Galloway, Baltimore, vice-president in charge of operations of the B. & O. System, to meet the local committee in Baltimore. It is understood that this committee will suggest that the empties of the B. & O. Western Maryland, Pennsylvania and P. & L. E. be worked west over the B. & O. and in return the other roads would work the loads to the east. The B. & O. has difficulty in getting the coal east of the mountains.

The meeting was called to order by J. M. Orr, Clarksburg chairman of the transportation committee of the Northern West Virginia Coal Operators' Association. Those present from Fairmont were: J. M. Jacobs, T. D. Connell and C. V. Critchfield, representing the local Chamber of Commerce; George S. Brackett, representing the Northern West Virginia Coal Operators' Association; and Clarence D. Robinson and George Peddicord, representing local coal operators.

The Federal Carbonic Co. was sold at a special commissioner's sale this morning to E. S. Griffith of Cleveland and Marcel Joffit of this city. Consideration was $34,200. Plans for the future of the company have not been announced. The plant is located at Barreville.

The Federal Carbonic Co. was organized along the period just after the close of the war. E. A. Bailey was one of the promoters of the company, while O. M. Doole and Marcel Jackson were among the leading local people interested. The company got into financial difficulties with a result that E. A. Bailey had to stand trial on the charge of misappropriating funds. He was found not guilty.

FEDERAL CARBONIC COMPANY IS SOLD

STREET CAR AND RAILWAY TRAFFIC HALTED BY FLOOD

ed, while one man lost five bagons which drifted away from Water street.

Many residences had water up to the first floor, while several families in the low sections of the city were forced to climb on tables and chairs and remain there for several hours until the flood subsided. No boats were available with which to go to the rescue of these unfortunate.

More Rain Than Ever
Creed E. Bolyard, the official government weather observer in this city, is the authority for the statement that more rain fell last night within a period of about three hours than has fallen in any other period of twenty-four hours this year. It was easily the heaviest storm of the year, the official government report showing that 2.34 inches of rain fell in this city, and the rainfall was very small as compared to that in other sections of the county.

While the streets were flooded last night, the storm sewers in this city were able to drain most of the streets. Not a single storm sewer was stopped up as the result of the storm and there was no material damage to streets in the city, according to W. E. Arnett, director of the city street department.

Property Damage High
Reports today indicated that the heaviest hit by the storm, and that the property damage was very high in both of these districts.

The waters of Booth's Creek, draining a large portion of Grant district, were the highest this morning that they have been for many years due to the very hard storm in the vicinity of Boothsville. The roads along this creek were flooded in many places this morning and were entirely impassable.

Eldora, Boothsville and other small settlements in that section were hit unusually hard by the storm. One farmer who resides in the vicinity of Eldora managed to get to the city this morning and told that at his home ten inches of water was found in a bucket, which last night was entirely empty. Another person reported that a coal bucket which had been left out in the rain was completely full of rain water as a result of the storm.

Wyatt Hard Hit
CLARKSBURG, Sept. 2.—A violent thunder storm that swept over the county early this morning wrought exceptional damage along Little Blaine and Big Blaine creeks and Cunningham Run in the northern part of the county, and especially in the towns of Wyatt and Peora. Waters of the creeks and runs assumed flood stages in a short space of time. Stores and dwellings were flooded, occupants being forced to take to the upper stories and roofs. Merchandise and furniture were swept away, rail and road traffic was suspended and poultry and livestock were drowned. No estimate of the damage is available as yet.

The Princess
In "The Princess" showing at the Princess today, Miss Dora May gives a clever demonstration of a would-be actress trying to act, but she does not succeed in deceiving her audiences, composed the first time of four, and the second time one.

She appears as a little country girl, who is serving as personal maid to an actress, but she has ambitions to be seen before the footlights instead of behind the scenes, and she tries to convince everyone who will give her a hearing that she can really act, but fails miserably, when given a try-out.

But at last, her opportunity comes when she is sent as proxy to impersonate the real actress in an affair she is trying to pull over to secure money from the wealthy father of her lover; which has been promised her provided she break off with the son.

But the shrewd millionaire not to be outdone by the adventuress, and seeing in the little maid real worth, offers to give her a home, and an opportunity to prepare herself to become the wife of his son and as Grace Lorimer, the actress, she is given into the motherly care of Martha Manning, Tom's aunt, who thought the treated kindly Grace might force her "family," and become a credit to the family.

Tom had been sent to a military town to look after his father's interests, and did not return to some time, but when he did return, he became rather complicated for all concerned.

The picture is only intended to entertain, and as a laugh provoker it fulfills its mission to the entire satisfaction of the audience.

Miss May has in her supporting cast some of the best known actor actors and actresses of the screen.

POMERENE BILL PASSED
WASHINGTON, Sept. 2.—The Pomerene Bill, regulating campaign expenditures of candidates for election to the Senate and House, was passed today by the Senate. The measure takes the place of the law held unconstitutional in the Newberry case. It now goes to the House.

Winning
Lucille Godbold wins her heat in the 300-meter run at the Women's International Track Meet at the Pershing Stadium, Paris. She was one of the big point winners of the American team, which finished second in total points.
